NATIONAL PARK SERVICE
GRAND CANYON NATIONAL PARK, ARIZONA

INFORMATION FOR HIKERS

Two main trails into the Canyon from the South Rim are recommended for hikers: the Bright Angel Trail near Park Headquarters, and the Kaibab Trail at Yaki Point, 3 mi. east of Headquarters. A Canyon trip is the reverse of mountain climbing, as the summit is reached at the end of the trip instead of halfway. On either trail you must climb 4,500' from the River back to the rim. Only excellent hikers, who take their time, make the trip without exhaustion. However, for those able to stand this exertion, a hiking trip into Grand Canyon well repays the effort. It is a fine way to realize a greater appreciation of the size of the Canyon and the magnificence of Inner Canyon scenery.

Canyon temperatures during the summer months frequently rise above 110°, sometimes as high as 120°, and cases of heat exhaustion and heat stroke to hikers and even individuals on the mule trips are by no means uncommon. Water supplies in the Canyon are not dependable on any of the trails, so hikers must carry water, and be extremely careful about its use. During high summer heat it is recommended that hikers carry no less than 1 gallon per day. Emergency mule service is expensive, and the need for it is avoidable if hikers take proper precautions and do not overestimate their hiking abilities.

For the enjoyment of all visitors, you are requested to leave this Park in as good, or in a better condition than you found it. Park regulations prohibit the destruction, injury, defacement, removal, or disturbance in any manner of any public building, sign, or equipment; of trees, flowers, vegetation; of rocks, mineral formations; animals, birds, or other wildlife; and any ruin or relic.

FOR THE SAFETY OF HIKERS AND MULE PARTIES:
Dogs or cats are not permitted within the Canyon.
Motorized vehicles or bicycles cannot be operated on Park trails.
Please don't take shortcuts or roll rocks.
In case of accident, notify Chief Park Ranger's Office.

WHEN MEETING MULE STRINGS, STAND QUIETLY ON OUTSIDE OF TRAIL TO LET MULES PASS.

BRIGHT ANGEL TRAIL: This is an 8-mile trail which starts near Bright Angel Lodge on the South Rim and ends at the Colorado River. The vertical distance from the South Rim to the River is 4,500'. Water is available at Indian Gardens all year and at the 1½- and 3-mile rest houses during the summer only. There is no potable water below Indian Gardens. Take a canteen. A campground is located at Indian Gardens 3,200' below and 4½ miles by trail from the rim. Water, modern restrooms, tables, fire grates, and wood are available.

A hike to Indian Gardens and return (9 miles) is a strenuous trip, and satisfies most good hikers. The additional hike from Indian Gardens to the Colorado River and return (7 miles) is exhausting, and should not be attempted unless one is accustomed to arduous hiking. There are 3 telephones on this trail for emergency use (River House, Indian Gardens, and Mile and a Half House). Cost for emergency mule service any place on this trail from Colorado River to the top: Per person $10, plus guide $10. (Overtime charges after 4 p.m.)

RIVER TRAIL: This trail is 2½ mi. in length and connects the Bright Angel Trail with the Kaibab Trail, and parallels the Colorado River. No potable water.

LITTLE MOUNTAIN
FACILITIES AND SERVICES

Little Mountain is located on the Natchez Trace Parkway 12 miles south of the Parkway-U. S. Highway 82 intersection. The Parkway Headquarters and Visitor Center is about 75 miles north at Tupelo, Mississippi.

The campground has 21 campsites. Each site consists of a level tent site (12' x 14'), a picnic table, and a fireplace with a cooking grate. There are also several paved parking loops for housetrailers up to 30 feet long, however, there are no sanitary or electric hookup facilities available. A modern comfort station is located in the center of the campground. Firewood is available at no charge in the campground.

The picnic ground has 19 sites, each with two tables and a fireplace. A comfort station is centrally located and wood is supplied at a central storage bin.

During the summer months, weather permitting, park rangers present campfire programs in the campground on Saturday evenings. Special programs for groups can be arranged by contacting the Superintendent at Parkway Headquarters in Tupelo.

There is a self-guiding nature trail featuring native food plants used by the pioneers and a scenic overlook on top of the mountain, which is the second highest point in Mississippi with an elevation of 604 feet above sea level.

A concessioner operates a service station on the Parkway at Little Mountain. He maintains a small stock of groceries and picnic supplies.
